From the Chairman’s Heart

Guard Hearts of the Children from Fear

“Above all else, guard your heart, for it is the wellspring of life.” (Proverbs 4:23)

Due to the Covid-19, we had to postpone AEA General Assembly. I would like to express our cordial thanks to the National Evangelical Christian Fellowship Malaysia for their willingness to host our GA and for all they did to prepare for it. I also express our appreciation to AEA staff members for their work.

In this time of Covid-19 pandemic, we are afraid of getting infected with the Corona virus. We pray every day for the patients and medical practitioners. However, WHO reports almost 300,000 deaths in the world. TV news reports the number of confirmed cases and deaths every day. TV talk shows tell us about danger of the disease, economic difficulties, sad stories of those who lost their work, and many other things caused by this pandemic. At our homes and in our communities, we talk a lot about the disease. Now we should remember that our children are exposed to what we talk at home and what the mass media tells about.

In Japan, many schools have suspended since the middle of February. Children cannot play nor talk with their friends. One of our church members told me about her 13-year-old daughter. One night she heard the daughter sobbed in her bed. The daughter spoke of her fear of death. She also said that she got sick and tired of hearing ‘Corona.’ We should remember that our children are exposed to our talks and the anxieties we have, and they become very anxious and stressful. The mother is not a careless person. Rather she is a very wise mother. During the suspension of children’s classes, she and her three children practice a children’s song every week and send me a movie of their performance on Sunday. In the performance I can see how they enjoy playing instruments and singing. I feel they had good time. together for practices. However, her daughter still became so stressful and fearful. In this time of difficulties, we ought to pay attention to the children. They feel how their parents face this pandemic, and they need comfort and protection from their parents. We have to take more time in talking and praying with our children.

Because we cannot worship together, I send a printed sermon, a weekly bulletin, and a pastoral letter to our members or member’s family. Since I heard about this teenage girl, I added quizzes or riddles at the end of my pastoral letters so that children and parents may share the questions and find answers together. Children need more joyful time as well as prayer time together with their parents. Let us spend more time with our children and make the time pleasant. Pleasant talks and laughter may ease their pain and dispel their fear.

“He who dwells in the shelter of the Most High will rest in the shadow of the Almighty…. Surely he will save you from the fowler’s snare and from the deadly pestilence.” (Psalms 91:1, 3)

Rev. Paul H. Ueki
Chairman
We are living in an unprecedented time; we have never seen a response to a global crisis like we have experienced these days. As of today, 4.5 millions people have been infected by the virus, over 300,000 deaths, millions of people lost their jobs, income, livelihoods and more.

While the danger is still imminent and the suffering continues, death toll keeps rising, families are still struggling to provide rice on the table, I have seen unprecedented responses from the churches in Asia amidst the challenging situation that they themselves are trying to make sense of what’s going on and to cope with the challenges as a religious entity and organization.

To stop the spread of the virus, most churches have moved from physical weekly worship to online worship or no worship at all (for churches without internet access). Smaller and less resourced churches in urban poor and rural area, with no technology and internet access, are struggling to find ways to provide spiritual nourishment to their members. They are also struggling with significant drop of income.

Through the reports and updates from the National Evangelical Alliances and other digital sources, I discovered that there are at least 11 significant (positive) trends of the Asian churches, as they are responding to the pandemic:

1. Technological Engagement
   There has been a significant increase on church’s engagement with technology in the past few months. Many churches that had not invested much in creating digital assets, have learned and produced a lot of media assets as the main tools to serve their congregation.

2. Relief and Generosity
There has been a significant increase in Church’s relief efforts to help those in need. I do not remember, when in church history, where churches all over Asia and around the world engaged in helping the community in needs around them with relief packages like today. While the churches themselves are impacted by the pandemic, they have increased their generosity and care for the community around them.

3. Partnership with Government
While it is true that in some Asian countries, where churches and Christians were experiencing discrimination by the government’s response to COVID-19, in many countries, coronavirus pandemic provides added venues for churches to collaborate with the government. There has been an increase in strategic and effective collaboration between churches and government in many countries in Asia.

4. Social Institutions
In a number of Asian countries, churches up their social responsibility by supporting social institutions, such as hospitals, first responders, schools and others with PPE (personal protective equipment), masks, ventilators, sanitizers and other related items.

5. Interfaith
There has been noted increase in interfaith collaboration between Christians and other faith in responding to the pandemic.

6. Prayers and Repentance
Significant increase in corporate digital (virtual) prayers. I do not remember when in the history of the church, we see so many organized and unorganized prayers being conducted around the world on a single issue. This looks like the beginning of a prayer movement.

7. Church Helping Church
Another encouraging sign is the way larger and more resourced churches and church networks support smaller and less resourced churches, both urban and rural. In many countries in Asia, this act of kindness between churches crossed denominational lines. There are new initiatives, such as pastors’ sponsorship, pastors’ income generation projects, and sharing media and technology equipment for the smaller churches to be able to do online services.

8. Back to the Core
The church also has learned in a big way, the essentials of worship, of serving and following Christ. The church learned very fast on how to operate without having to have building and other facilities. Bringing back the importance of family discipleship and worship at home.

9. South-south Economy
In the past, churches in some countries in Asia always look to the Western churches and governments to help them to respond to disaster or any other tragedies. Today, where economic downturn hits almost every country in the world, we have seen a new and healthier model, where almost all of the significant increase in churches’ generosity and relief projects were funded locally. The beginning of a new church economic model. The south-south model.
10. Salvation
There have been several testimonies from several countries in Asia, where leaders and people from other faith and or secular background begin to sincerely seek God for an answer in the midst of this challenging time. Many have found salvation in Christ Jesus.

11. Opportunities
Some of the National Evangelical Alliances in Asia has embraced a new perspective, and begin to see this pandemic as an opportunity, an open door to be the light and salt on earth, to advance the Kingdom of God. This new perspective is spreading rapidly among the churches in Asia. The Asia Evangelical Alliance committed on two things. First, to find ways to learn and leverage all these “signs” to reach their maximum impacts in shaping the church in Asia. Second, to find ways to increase collaboration among the Evangelical Alliances and churches in Asia as a whole, to consider what we can do together to contribute toward supporting the church in Asia in responding to the pandemic and beyond.

The National Evangelical Alliances in Asia are currently in the process of forming 10 Task Forces in response to the second commitment above, they are:

1. Biblical Conversation and Theological Reflection
Biblical Conversation and Theological Reflection on how to read and give meaning to this incident (to collect, compile & publish on AEA Website).

2. Collecting Best Practices

3. The Challenge of Technology
How to overcome the challenge – the lacks of capacity and access to technology.

4. Supporting Pastors
Support pastors of less resourced churches among urban poor and in rural area.

5. Support for Community Beyond Immediate Relief (Jobs Creation)

6. Anticipate Long-term Impact on Children & Youth

7. Preparing the Church for:
   a. future disruption;
   b. a church structure that is more agile;
   c. a solution beyond digital.

8. Financial Sustainability within Asia
How NEAs will work collaboratively to help ministries in Asia identify and introduce income generating avenues.

9. Environmental Justice
Prepare the church to be good stewards of the environment.

10. Support Women in Response to Increased Domestic Violence
Church’s response to support and protect women because of the increased domestic violence in the context of Lockdown.

Please pray for these Task Forces and let us know if you would like to be part of or contribute toward any of these Task Forces.
